TRIP UP THE RIVER

Pretty Groves and Shady Picnic Grounds in Plenty.

MR. COMSTOCK'S UNIQUE OFFER

North Park and Its Surroundings—Some of the Features Observed During a Ten-Mile Boat Ride.

It is safe to say that not one person in ten who reside in Grand Rapids are aware of the fact that on the banks of the river that flows through the city and on into Lake Michigan are some of the prettiest spots of nature in the state.

A representative of THE HERALD recently enjoyed a ten mile ride upstream on the little stream North Park, and enjoyable and entertaining pastimes that was always changing will long be remembered. Grand River is 700 feet in width both above and below North Park, and along its shores for ten or fifteen miles are a large number of beautiful groves suitable for picnic parties and camping grounds. At Augusta there is a picturesque little grove of oaks that is particularly interesting. The center attraction here is the epicene church, now abandoned, which stands upon one corner of a high bank of ground nearly 100 feet above the river bed. Another spot that is attractive is a pretty little grove just up the stream on lower ground, where great oaks and elms stand just thick enough to shade the grass and the pursuit of spring water is near at hand. Along the valley just south of the church are numerous small streams that contain trout in great quantities.

The Hon. S. S. Bailey proposes to improve his park, containing about twelve acres, and all wooded, in a short time. Mr. Bailey has also about fifty acres on the bank of the river, a mile or so above North Park, which has a first growth of heavy timber. Any one of a romantic turn of mind, and who appreciates a refreshing cool trysting place, will easily recognize the fact that along the banks of the river there will be found of this beautiful city will be found the future park grounds. The north boundary of the immediate vicinity of Grand Rapids shows a remarkable growth in recent years. The opening of North Park and the erection of the Soldiers' Home has greatly increased the value of real estate in that neighborhood. The grove at the Soldiers' Home contains about 150 acres, and it is doubtful if a more entrancing spot is to be found on the river than in the groves where the old veterans while away hours at a time. These groves and those surrounding beautiful North Park are easily reached from the city by a splendidly equipped street railway and a fine gravel road. These grounds are located about the same distance from the center of the city that Reed's Lake is, and it is pleasing to state that in a short time it will compare with the best in the state. The hotel in the band is cut out in all that can be asked, as each member is a soloist, and way up in his profession. Lovers of fine music should not fail to hear the Grand Rapids City Band Labor Day at North Park.
